

"Schmoozer" (David Reinstein's idea) is a way to chat to your friends, family, and colleagues when you are in the mood, when you have time, and when you are conversationally compatible with each other.

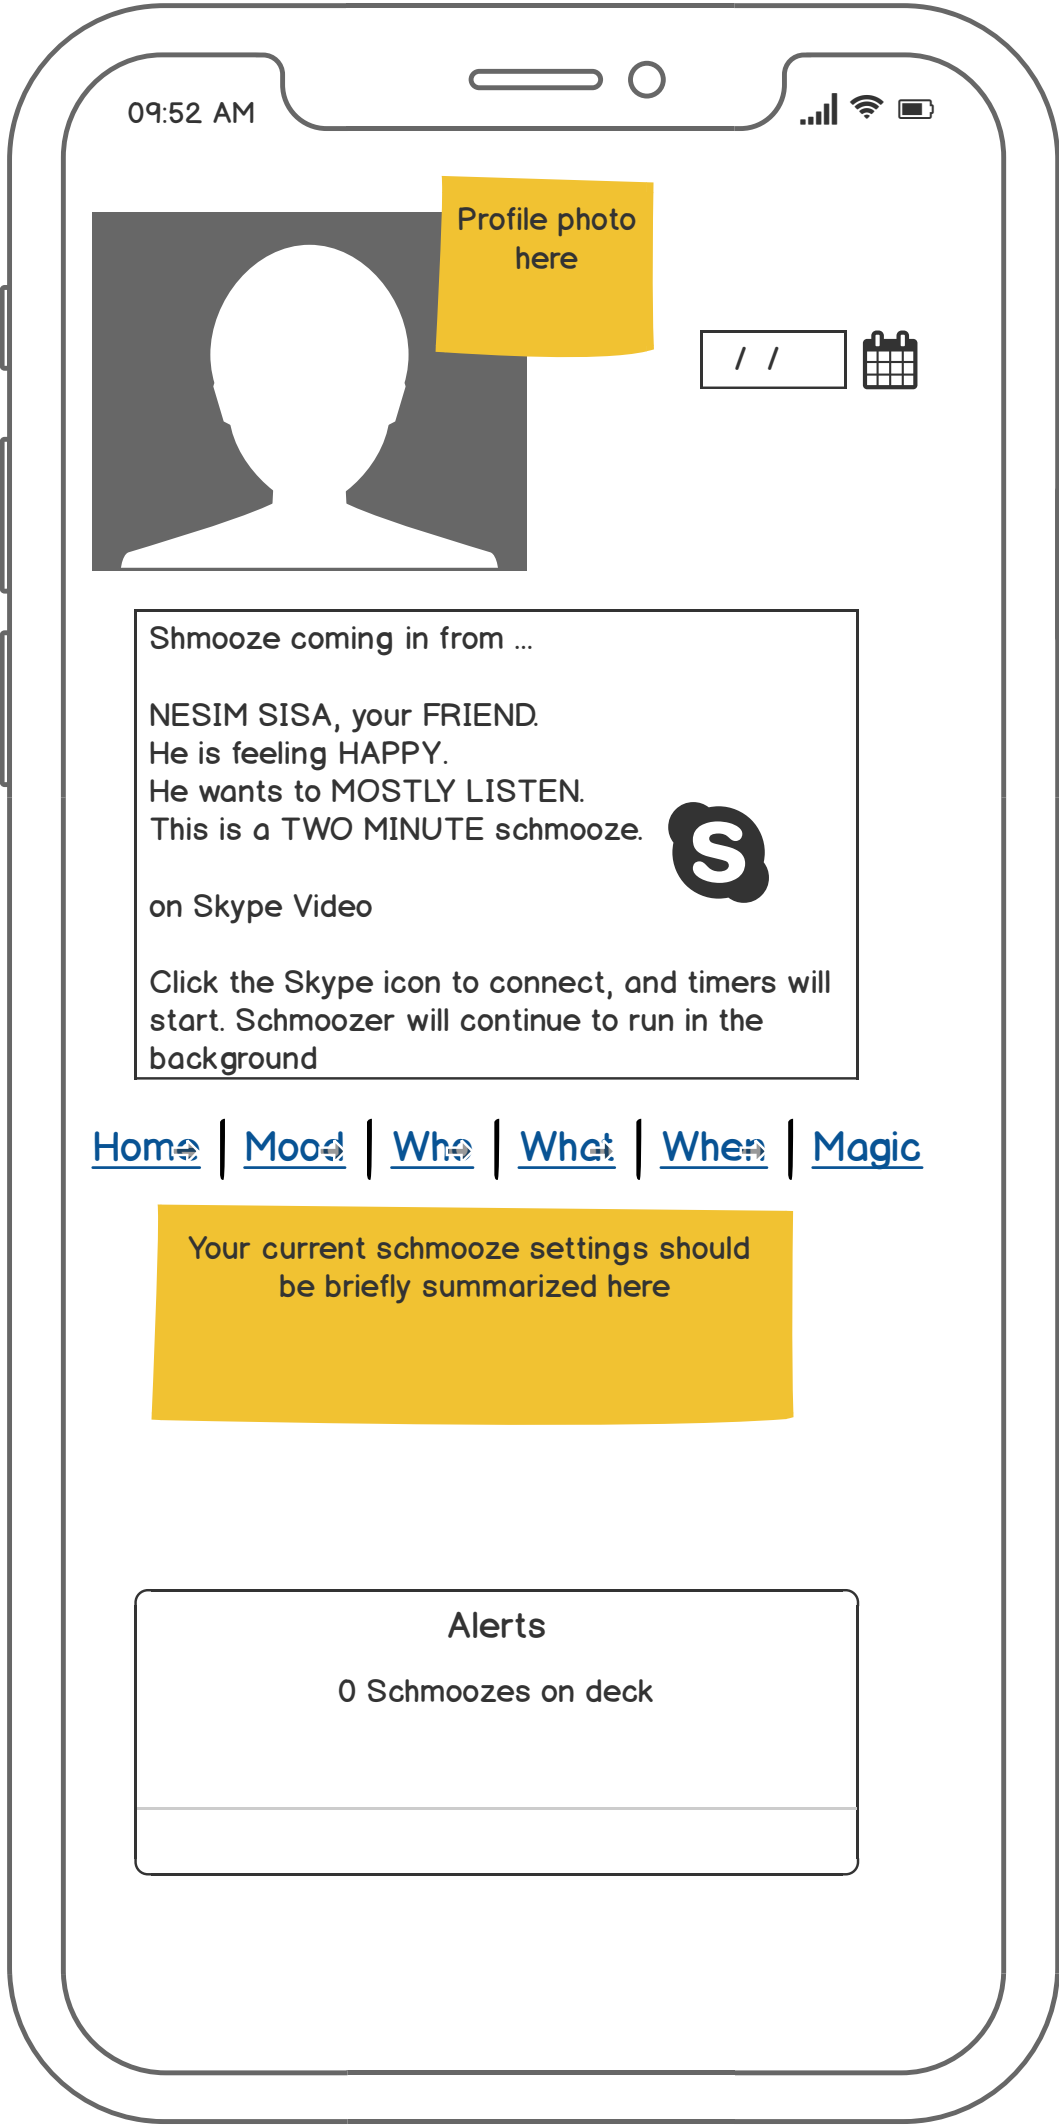

Not sure if we want this info though... it could undermine the idea that "I don't want people to search me out to contact me unless I'm in the mood"

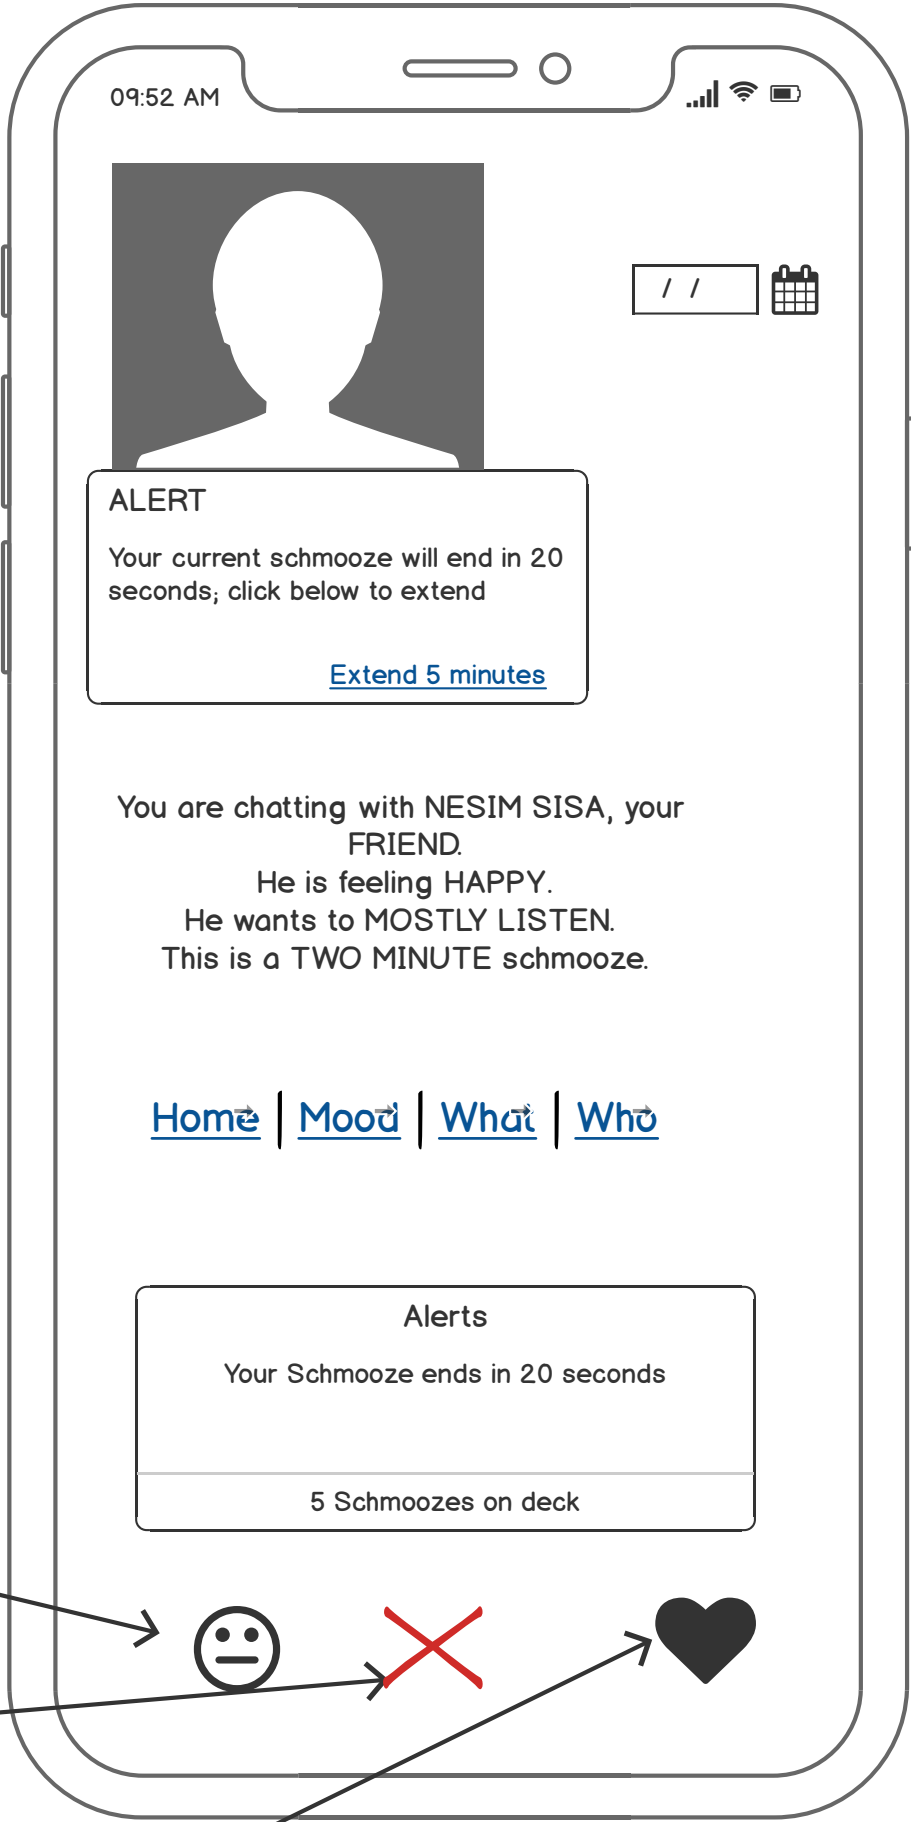

Schmoozer is not the 'group-podcast-voicemail-stitching' app ("The Big Schmooze") I mentioned... it is closer to the "CUBZ" plan (I've shared a writeup of that one too). But you can probably see how these could be easily integrated going forward.

Also note that I want this to be VOICE-ENABLED as much as possible, so people can use it on the go!

"I'm getting bored" button ... if BOTH parties push this, the call will schedule to end in 30 seconds.

End call immediately button

I'm lovin this call/this part of the call... use for feedback later

How are ya?

When I am ready to schmooze, update my status on:

☒ Skype

☐ Facebook messenger

☐ Google hangouts

... to people in desired categories (friends, family, etc) even if they are not on Schmooze yet or not logged in.

This is not necessary, but it helps you engage with your freinds who haven't yet discovered the wonders of Schmooze.

What topics do you like to talk about, and what do you like to do when schmoozin'?

Sports, family, politics, jokes, music, television, tech, work, mortgages, kids, school,....

As they enter it will autocomplete with things other users (in their network) have entered.

We can use this to come up with options for the 'what' screen. We can also generate word clouds from this for people and groups.

This is perhaps the hardest part -- figuring out how to link these!!

Obviously we will also try to get them to import and invite contacts

We want to give them options to schedule schmoozes in the future at particular times, and see these, but I'm not sure what is possible ... connect to Google Calendar?
